

Remo Corghi, President of the Nexion group, passed away

Remo Corghi, President of the Nexion Group, has suddenly died the last 30th of July at the age of 81.

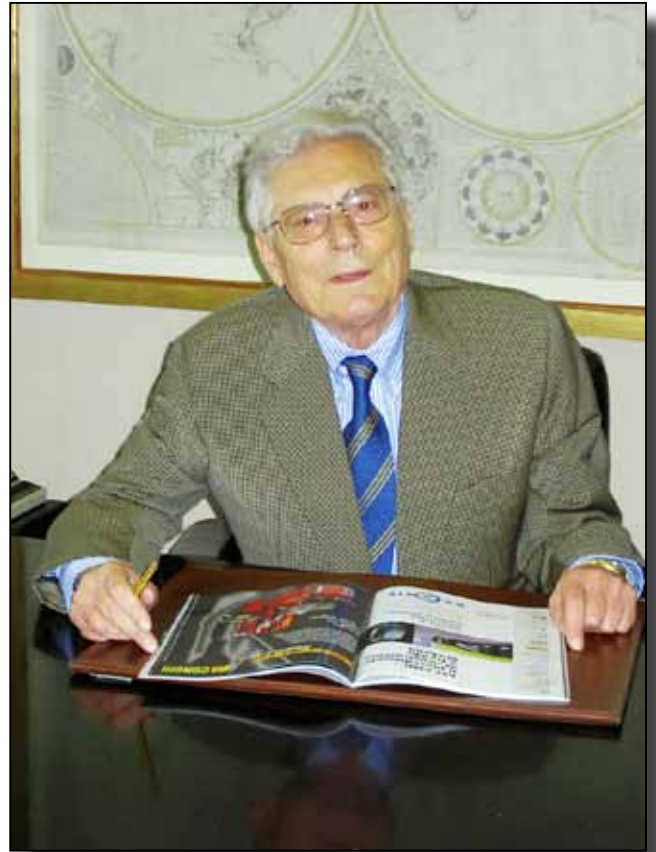

From 1947 he started working with his brother Erminio and together they founded in 1954 Corghi Elettromeccanica in Correggio, a small town within the district of Reggio Emilia. The firm has showed a big creativity in various fields developing innovative products as TV voltage stabilizer, agricultural machineries, household appliances and mechano-textile equipment.

At the end of the 1950s, when in Italy the automobile booms exploded, Corghi definitely entered into the vehicle assistance sector with a revolutionary wheel balancer for the car's wheels. In 1961 ERMINIO invented "Artiglio" the first tyre changer in the history which opened the doors to a new productive sector and gave birth in Correggio to the famous "tyre changer district".

The product was so innovative that Corghi needed to extend its distribution network worldwide. And it was exactly in this field that Remo gave his big contribution.

From that time the firm has never stopped growing, developing complete lines of products for the wheel service as tyre changers, wheel balancers, wheel aligners, lifters, tools for the technical control and vehicle diagnosis, becoming one of the leading companies in this sector worldwide.

After the death of Erminio in 1968, Remo together with his sister-in-law Maria and his nephew Giuliana shared the activities of consolidation and developing of the company and in 1973 its conversion in S.p.A.

In 1984 Remo was nominated President of Corghi S.p.A., and gradually also the other nephews enter actively in the business. After the death of Giuliana in 1989, the oldest daughter of Erminio who was already CEO, all the second generation entered into the Board of Directors led by the President Remo.

The commitment and the devotion of the whole family, together with Remo's charisma, led the firm's development and founded the Nexion Group, the holding of the family that controls all the companies acquired and created in order to strengthen the business in the vehicle assistance sector.

For all that years Remo, thanks to his entrepreneurship and prudence, has continued to guide Nexion through ambitious objectives that enabled the Group to open direct commercial branches in Germany, France and USA, and new production plants in Italy and in the far China.

In all that years Remo Corghi has been a daily presence, next to his collaborators, from directors to factory workers, supporting and motivating them with his irony and attending all the most important initiatives of the Group.

The last of these initiatives has been the Nexion School for lifters that was inaugurated personally by Remo the last May in Prato di Correggio, showcase for a product line for which the group is investing great resources.

Remo Corghi leaves to his daughter, nephews and grandsons a moral inheritance that will be the foundation on which the Nexion Board of Directors will be engaged to continue and to develop the work made by him and Erminio, in order to remain one of the leading companies in the vehicle equipment industry.
